

Stefanie Collins <princessleiaorgana21@yahoo.com>
03/31/2003 05:22:24 PM

Record Type:Record

To: Lorraine D. Hunt OIRA ECON GUIDE/OMB/EOP@EOP
cc:
Subject: Seniors are Worth Just as Much

Stefanie Collins
113 1/2 E Main 8
Norman, OK 73069

March 31, 2003

Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs Lorraine Hunt
Office of Management and Budget, NEOB
Room 10202, 725 17th Street, NW
Washington, DC 20503

Dear Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs Hunt:

The "OMB Draft Guidelines for the Conduct of Regulatory Analysis and the Format of Accounting Statements" determines that saving the life of an elderly person is worth less than saving the life of a young person.

As an American citizen who is the grandchild of a senior citizen, I find that devaluing an elderly person's life is unethical and immoral.

This is a mere pretext to cut the value of health and safety standards in order to protect the industries that stand to gain from this White House initiative.

The OMB's conclusion that the lives of seniors are less valuable raises serious ethical and scientific questions.

If analysis is full applied, regulation for air pollution, toxic waste cleanup, food labeling and other quality of life issues could be weakened or not even implemented at all- and our senior citizens will feel the brunt of it since their health is the most vulnerable to dirty air and unhealthy food.

Sincerely,

Stefanie Collins